

Dawn of A New Bedroom

Local blogger and fashionista Dawn Yang shows off her new palatial digs.

Popular local blogger and fashion entrepreneur Dawn Yang may be the epitome of style, but the 28-year-old's bedroom was just as messy as the next person's. At least it used to be, before it was given a complete makeover courtesy of local interior design firm Designed Design Associates (DDA).

Dawn told Parents World: "In the past, I was embarrassed to invite anyone into my room! It was spartan, plain and messy. I also disliked the yellow beech wood of my wardrobe and tables, and the roman blinds were quite faded."

Joann, who oversaw the renovation of Dawn's bedchamber, explained that her primary challenge in fulfilling Dawn's wish was to integrate appropriate décor with the limited space available.

Joann: "We weren't keen on cluttering up Dawn's room by adding (another) storage cabinet, so we modified the area surrounding her bedroom entrance to double as a bag storage area."

Joann: "We also installed a see-through wardrobe with sliding doors, and we used mirrors - lots of mirrors - to reflect the space and the light, all to create an image of spaciousness."

Dawn: "The mirrors are very useful for vain girls like me, because I like to check out how my hair looks like from every angle, and also scrutinise my top-to-toe outfits."

"The best part about the mirrors is that they create the illusion of a bigger room, which is fantastic. I'm now able to enjoy some occasional quiet time on my new bay window area, reclining on some plush cushions while reading a book or a magazine without worrying about any clutter."

“With my mirrors, I have no excuse to step out of the house looking bad now. My bedroom is also so gorgeous that it's a joy to come home!”
